UNITY! FREEDOM! SOCIALISM! - ONE CIVIL SERVICE UNION, ONE GLORIOUS DESTINY!

ELEPHANT IN THE ROOM

Round & About

by Judas Iscariot

Unbeknownst [REDACTED] hysterical [REDACTED] rival [REDACTED] uncoordinated [REDACTED] fishing [REDACTED] traditional [REDACTED] [REDACTED] seventeen months [REDACTED] cauliflower [REDACTED] regardless of the cost to the union. [REDACTED] Fortean Times [REDACTED] General Secretary!

Meanwhile, a cool May morning, with pale sunshine eager to warm away the swirling sea mists, greeted fresh faced delegates trooping into the Centre for the first day of main conference, keen to learn more about MARK SERWOTKA's condition and take part in a round of boringly predictable debates around motions, whose conclusions had been fixed by the grandees in advance. The overwhelming LUNITY majority on the floor ensured that everything would pass smoothly, and so it did. Although there was no video link-up, a long message from ailing Supremo Serwotka was read out to the masses together with a hope that he would be out of hospital next week. That remains to be seen.

Hospital Bed similar to the one occupied by the General Secretary

Falconcrest has still to issue an official statement even though SERWOTKA has been in hospital for about a month. Apparently, the doctors have still not fully diagnosed his condition and he is still under observation. BATTLEMUCH, the only man he can trust, has been in constant telephone contact and he returned to London on Wednesday morning to fully brief the General Secretary about what's been happening over the past few days. Oh how they laughed.

Incidentally at the President's bash last night there was no mention of MAREK at all by any of the biggies. The only thing JANICE said was "We got through the first day quickly" and then moved on to the retirement presentation for CCSU supremo CHARLIE COCHRANE and the only mention of SERWOTKA was in CHARLIE's speech when he told the story of when his son 'phoned and said: "Is that Welsh bloke there?"

The more equally attractive two alternatives seem, the harder it can be to choose between them – no matter that, to the same degree, the choice can only matter less. (Fredkin)

Miscellaneous Tittle & Tattle

LANNING and BOFF have been making the most of their temporarily enhanced status, determined to prove that the show can and must go on even in the absence of the great and glorious leader. HUGO concentrates on the fringe meetings that are short, non-controversial and generously laden with refreshments while BOFF is targeting those spartan meetings with a political edge, where you have to buy your own drinks. which doesn't bother CHRIS as he's not a big drinker anyway. One fringe meeting neither will be going to will be the SOCIALIST WANKERS rally where the guest speaker is none other than MARTIN SMITH, the former CPSA firebrand of the 1980s who has kicked his way to the top of the SWP.

Disturbing news from the PARRY household. WYNNE, recently exiled to Victoria alongside STEELE managed to mislay his expensive PCS mobile phone/remote access computer whilst socialising with delegates earlier in the week. Things were compounded when the notoriously fearsome Mrs PARRY called his mobile for her hourly check-up, only to be greeted by a 'hello' from a mysterious female voice. The phone was later retrieved by the nervous-looking FTO with the battery having been bled-dry by calls made to various parts of the planet. Rest assured that any HQ punishment for this will fade into insignificance compared to the wrath of a Mrs PARRY scorned!

The Independent Left's (prop. LEE ROCK) main plank of the week seems to be to get delegates to support any motion or meeting to do with The Spirit Level -- a book by Prof Wilkinson. Their conference leaflet made no mention of any ADC motion bar A14 - let's spend PCS money on lining the pockets of the book's author. It's typical of Lunity's desire to maintain a semblance of political unity that they supported the motion with the constitutional nonsense of "a statement" rather than supporting with remission or outright opposition.

Rosie Huzzard

The next Independent Left attack on the grandees' achievements was one of the few outright censure motions A15. Moved by some lightweight from Devon they then wheeled out two of their noisiest harpies, seasoned hack CHRISTINE HULME and neophyte ROSIE HUZZARD, who banged on about the NEC not carrying out the terms of last year's motion A47. All the grandees conceded that this might have been the case and needless to say Conference wisely rejected these loony left rants and it was heavily defeated.

SAGA LOUTS by Nosferatu

Check out leaflet of the week from the wrinklies Associate and Retired Members (ARMS) branches campaigning for support for Motion A99 on partial voting rights for ARMS members. This is being opposed by the NEC despite the fact that the ARMS leaflet concludes with this quote from GODRICH and SERWOTKA: "As a union which stands for fairness and solidarity, we have decided that we must find a settlement which covers all our membership and not just some" (letter to all civil servants, 3rd February 2008)

Notable absences from the old gits stall downstairs was former full-timer MICKEY DUGGAN who has reinvented himself in his dotage as General Secretary of the Civil Service Pensioners Alliance. He had obviously heard that all the pubs within three minutes vicinity of the Centre had run out of real ale AND red wine. Another absentee was CHRISTINE KIRK, one-time CPSA General Treasurer and FTO who also holds a sinecure in the Alliance. She claims to have been pinned down -- mainly by the ash from the Icelandic volcano - in her Spanish villa. where she and her bibulous husband RAY ALDERSON spend lazy days drinking wines swapping lies and soaking up the sun. Keeping the codgers going was former pensioners chief BRIAN STURTEVANT who still does his bit on the EC. Poor BRIAN has to grovel to CHRIS BAUGH as he needs £22 million to fill the black hole in the union's pension fund. Little does he realize that the union is broke and there not much chance of any extra cash.

Business News – The Annual Report – 12 Years of robust growth

PCS -- A Time For Growth & Change

Shareholders gave another vote of confidence to the executive team of PCS plc at the 2010 Annual General Meeting in Brighton this week. Most of the Board were returned but three directors were voted off by dissatisfied shareholders complaining about alleged incompetent handling of the current CSCS restructuring programme. The new Board expressed confidence in the future and willingness to work with four new executive directors in a constructive and amicable spirit to steer the company through the current difficult economic climate.

Mr Hugo Lanning, director of International Affairs, presented the opening report in the absence of Managing Director Marek Serwotka, who is gravely ill and currently being treated at the London Heart Hospital. A motion to convey the AGM's best wishes for a speedy recovery and return to duty was carried nem con. The Meeting endorsed the Board's decision to delegate the powers of Managing Director to Mr Lanning and the Director of Finance, Mr Christopher Baugh during Mr Serwotka's leave of absence.

Mr Lanning said he was pleased to report that PCS had delivered an outstanding performance in 2010 generating significantly higher profits while consuming less capital. Our discipline in allocating capital to the most profitable products and channels, combined with our proactive management of the Group's balance sheet, has allowed us to completely transform our capital position, which is now one of the strongest in the industry.

This, he said, is why our financial situation is objectively the best it has been for twenty years notwithstanding the collapse of the Greek economy, the slide in the value of Sterling and the Euro together with some minor concerns over the current status of the corporate pension scheme.

The Democratic Alliance asset portfolio has increased over the past financial year, but this expansion cannot be sustained without further stringent regulation and scrutiny of the performance and expenditure matrices. Left Unity Inc. trading under The Grandee brand experienced a further decline but still retains a dominant share in the human resource skills market due to slimming down its profile by outsourcing of all of the peripheral work of the PCS Democrats marque, leaving it to concentrate on its core managerial functions. The investment in the 4TM label, which was launched in 2004, is beginning to generate profit, easily offsetting the collapse of the Independent Left clothing franchise and the Met Police, which has gone into voluntary administration following the sudden disappearance of Mrs Yesidalli.

Mr Lanning welcomed the new members of the board which included Mrs Frankland-Barber, Mr Simon Collis and Mr Robert Bryson and congratulated Mrs Diane Breen on her re-election. Mr Bryson, who failed in an attempt to unseat Mr Serwotka last year, said that previous differences would not be a barrier to future co-operation at the highest level for the good of the company. In her acceptance speech on behalf of the new directors Mrs Breen maintained that only 4TM can bring the change our company needs. Only 4TM can offer PCS a fresh tomorrow that can roll up its sleeves and get on with the job.

Retiring director Mr Charles Cochrane was presented with a silver propelling pencil in tribute to his years of work in the pensions department and a number of other members of staff were awarded engraved Polish crystal trophies for their life-time achievements in PCS.

Thursday tends to be the day they do all the turgid business which rightly brings Trades Unions into disrepute. Unless you're actually speaking in a debate you might find it difficult to stay awake. You could do worse than taking the opportunities to have a short break and touch base with one of the Imams. Your spirit will be truly refreshed.

If you do intend to endure the bulk of proceedings, here are our guidelines for the day:

Motions A40 & A41 – Oppose

Vote instead for the much more radical A42 which gets to the heart of the problem. We don't – and shouldn't – trust ANY of the political parties to represent our members interests. We are entirely capable of representing our own interests, thank you very much.

Motion A43 – Support (with reservations)

Obviously the branch recognises the threat inherent in allowing the NEC to make decisions on candidates, yet it still concedes that they can “load” the short list. Untenable

Motion A44 – Abstain (Coffee Time)

Whilst we share sympathy for Ms Brooks, we see no obvious reason why personal cases should be dealt with in the hall.

Motions A46 – Oppose

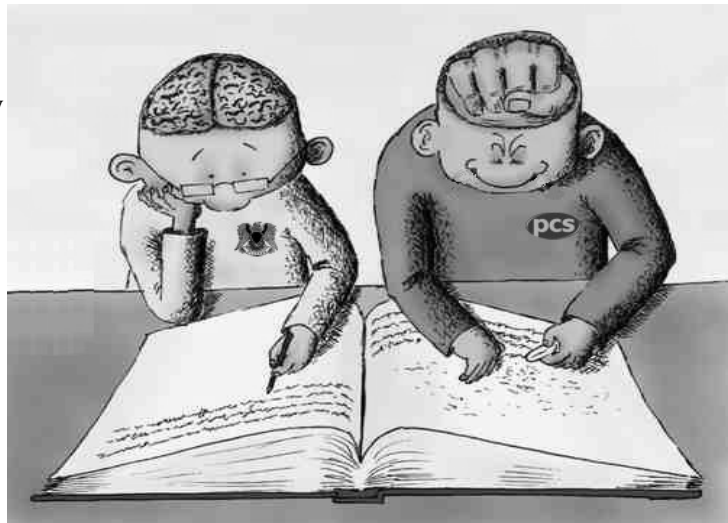

What business has a mere Trade Union in the crucial development of the young mind? That is clearly the task of the one true religion. Speak to an Imam today and apply for a reserved place for your sons in one of our forthcoming Summer Madrassas

PFLCPSA NEWS

Well, as you may have noticed, some delegates have not yet “got it” yet. They will. They will.

Unfortunately, our offer of personal tuition came too late to be to be taken up by those most in need of this service.

Hence, this season we shall be mostly eating yesterday's left-over bulletins, as it has ceased to exist and is now an ex-bulletin. If we told you why, we'd have to kill you. Thanks to all followers who have tithed already: you have earned your place in Jannah.

Teamwork

However, printing and shredding costs continue to mount, so your entirely voluntary donations need to be maintained if we are to bring you (most of) your daily news – however fleetingly. The offertory plate is ergonomically designed to free you of all that unnecessary metalwork clogging up your pockets as well as any excess folding stuff stretching your wallets out of shape.

Even rarer than yesterday's bulletin: the collectors' limited edition, hand-crafted

2010 PFL T Shirt could yet be yours for a mere tenner if you hurry.*

Usual agents, usual channels, usual time. Punters and field commanders can bid for our personal favours for a short while each evening at the OLD SHIT. 22.00 sharp.

Yesterday's magnificent response means we've already exceeded our promotion target for the week so all that remains is to remind that you can go through it all again, online at www.pflcpsa.com
